3D VOTE ELECTS PACELLI; HAILED AS POPE PIUS XII

By FRANK GERVASI

VATICAN CITY, March 2 (INS)—The Sacred College of Cardinals, meeting in secret conclave, today chose Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli of Italy as successor to Pope Pius XI as Supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church.

The new Pontiff, in tribute to his beloved predecessor, chose the title of Pope Pius XII.

The election, one of the speediest in the history of the church, raised to the pontificate the brilliant and gifted diplomatist who served as papal secretary of state under Pope Pius.

Pope Pius XII Acclaimed, Gives Blessing to World

VATICAN CITY, March 2 (AP)—Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, who was elected 262d Pope of the Holy Roman Catholic Church on his 63d birthday today, imparted his first Papal benediction from the central balcony of St. Peter's to a wildly cheering throng shortly after announcement of his election.

Camillo Cardinal Caccia Dominioni, dean of the order of cardinal deacons, appearing on the balcony at 6:07 p. m. (12:07 E. S. T.), made the announcement into a microphone which carried his voice to loudspeakers in the great square before the basilica and to the world by radio.

In Latin he proclaimed: "Annuntio vobis gaudium magnum: Habemus Papam—Eminentissimum ac Reverendissimum Cardinalem Eugenium Pacelli, qui sub nomine impendit Pio Decimum."

In English this was: "I give you tidings of great joy: we have a Pope—the Most Eminent and Reverend Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, who has taken upon himself the name of Pius XII."

The crowd which pushed ever nearer to the steps under the balcony, noble guards, police guards and papal gendarmes took their places at the sides of the balcony.

The crucifix bearer and acolytes who first had appeared with the dean of the order of deacons, reappeared.

Suddenly the new pope, surrounded by cardinals, came into view.

Papal guards executed military honors, first on the balcony and then from below.

The crowd burst into a tremendous ovation as his Holiness came forward to the balustrade and silently gazed down.

"Vive Il Papa!" the spectators roared.

Handkerchiefs and hats were waved from thousands of hands.

The Pontiff let the ovation continue for some minutes; then he lifted his right hand and signaled for the benediction.

A silence fell on the crowd and some knelt.

A monsignor opened a large ritual book and held it for the Pontiff to see.

Then Pius XII began to speak in Latin.

"Blessed be the name of the Lord," he said.

"From now and henceforth for ever more," tens of thousands of voices responded.

"Our help is in the name of the Lord," the Pope continued.

"Who made heaven and earth," rolled back the response.

The pontiff raised his right hand and three times made the sign of the cross, turning to the four corners of the earth.

"May the blessing of God Almighty, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, descend upon you and remain there always," he concluded.

"Amen!" roared the faithful.

Pius XII appeared on the balcony at 6:22 p. m. (12:22 p. m. E. S. T.), 12 minutes after the announcement of his election.

After giving his blessing, he remained for several minutes smiling down on the vast crowd.

Cardinal Pacelli was born in Italy on March 2, 1876 and created a cardinal in 1929 by Pope Pius XI. His elevation to the papal throne came on his 63d birthday.

At the death of Pope Pius, he was named Camerlengo, or Chamberlain of the Holy Roman Catholic Church and as such carried on the duties of the pontiff during the period of "sede vacante" since Pius' passing.

The choice of Cardinal Pacelli broke a long-standing tradition that Secretaries of State are not to be chosen as pontiff. It carried on tradition, however, in that his election meant another Italian occupant of the papal throne.

Thin White Smoke Tells News

Cardinal Pacelli was chosen on the third ballot cast on the first day of voting. His choice was made known by a thin white column of smoke arising from the roof above the Sistine chapel, where the conclave was assembled.

The selection of Pacelli was regarded by competent observers as proof of the determination of the College of Cardinals to carry on the work and ideals of the late Pope Pius XI.

He had been attacked as a potential candidate by the Nazi press because of his assiduity in carrying out the doctrines of his predecessor, who was bitterly opposed to racialism and religious persecution of any sort.

Pope Pius XII will go down in history as the first Supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic church to have visited the United States.

61 Cardinals Kiss His Hand

The tell-tale column of white smoke began to rise at 5:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m. E. S. T.), but a lengthy delay occurred before the world knew the name of the new pontiff.

Pope Pius XII was meanwhile dressed in the white robes of his pontificate and each of the remaining 31 cardinals reverently kissed his hand.

At 6:04 p. m. (12:04 p. m. E. S. T.) the doors of the loggia were opened and a light tapestry slung over the balcony above the main door of the cathedral.

The tapestry depicted the sacred heart on a field of

BOSTON CARDINAL CASTS HIS VOTE

(Special to the Boston Evening American)

VATICAN CITY, March 2.—With only Monsignor Jeremiah F. Minihan, his secretary, to attend him, Cardinal O'Connell of Boston cast his successive votes in the conclave which named a new Pope here today.

There had been a possibility that the cardinal would ask to have Dr. John G. Dowling, husband of his niece, admitted as his companion. Dr. Dowling is a Boston physician and skin specialist.

Precedent allows cardinals attending the conclave to have with them one servant and one priest. They may also have one companion, by special request.

Dr. Dowling held himself in readiness for a possible call. But none came before the unexpectedly quick selection of the new Pontiff.

Cardinal O'Connell was last of the cardinals to arrive. He was obliged to travel on three steamship lines and then speed here from Naples by automobile, in order to cover the long distance between Nassau, where he was in retreat, and the Holy City.

Pacelli Won Fame By Diplomatic Skill

By VINCENT DE PASCAL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

VATICAN CITY, March 2 (INS)—The newly elected Pope Pius XII, the former Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, gained outstanding fame with his predecessor, the late Cardinal Gasparri, as one of the two men whose consummate diplomatic skill made possible the various concordat treaties.

Born in Rome on March 2nd, 1876, he came of an ancient Roman family. His father, Filippo Pacelli, was dean of consistorial advocates at the Vatican. His mother, Donna Virginia Graziosi, was a Roman noblewoman.

The new Pope was ordained when he was only 23. His outstanding ability was such that only two years later he was summoned to the Sacred Congregation of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs to serve his apprenticeship in diplomacy.

Nominated professor of canon law at the Vatican's seminary of St. Apollinaris, he worked at his job with such zeal that the then Mons. Gasparri, at the time secretary of the Congregation of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs, urged him to abandon his professorship and dedicate his entire time to ecclesiastical diplomacy.

STARTED AT ROME

The idea appealed to Fr. Pacelli, and he became a "writer of minutes" or copyist at the congregation's offices.

In this manner he began his diplomatic career at the bottommost rung of the ladder.

From that humble post he rose to become undersecretary of the congregation and then pro-secretary.

When Cardinal Gasparri became Secretary of State, Pope Pius X nominated young Monsignor Pacelli secretary of the congregation of extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs.

Upon his accession to the throne, Benedict XV retained Pacelli in that post.

The new Pope had had occasion to appreciate the promising qualities of the young prelate, for he, too, had served in the secretariat of state and had come into close touch with young Pacelli.

During his secretaryship of the congregation he collaborated with Cardinal Gasparri in carrying out the monumental task of codifying the canon law.

WON FAME AT MUNICH

On April 21, 1917, Benedict XV decided to send Monsignor Pacelli to Munich as apostolic nuncio, a delicate diplomatic mission at a time when half the Catholics of Europe were engaged in a great war with the other half.

Before his departure, Benedict

WHILE IN HUB—On recent tour of United States, the then Cardinal Pacelli, now Pope Pius XII, was a guest of Bishop Francis J. Spellman. They are shown above as they arrived at the bishop's Newton home.

Pacelli Relaxed Walking in Boston

By FRED PERKINS

A Lincoln-like figure, tall and gaunt and impressive!

An athletic, tireless stride that ate up miles like a machine!

Dark, flashing eyes that could scan the pages of an upbraid book as he walked, yet at the same time smile understandingly at companions and admire New England's autumn foliage and the fathomless blue of an October sky.

That's the picture those who were closest to him here will always have of Pope Pius XII, the former Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli.

His formal call upon Cardinal O'Connell, the masses he celebrated in the pastorate of Bishop Francis J. Spellman, Sacred Heart Church, Newton, his kindly visits to schools and orphanages, all these showed the former papal secretary in distinctive roles.

RELAXED WALKING

But Eugenio Pacelli, the man, seemed to be most approachable, most comprehensible, in his moments of freedom and relaxation.

And here, as elsewhere, he found freedom and relaxation in long, fast walks, book in hand, reading as he walked and talked and observed.

He arrived in Boston late on the afternoon of October 13, 1938. His program was a full one, from the beginning to end of his stay.

But he found time to walk. And he must have covered, on foot, at least 20 or 30 miles of the highways and byways surrounding the Center street, Newton, home of his host, Bishop Spellman.

REFUSED ESCORT

Former Cardinal Pacelli liked company. The reprieve-thrust of his keen mind required foils and friendly adversaries.

But he didn't like a retinue. And on his seemingly endless tramps about the environs of Newton, he refused to permit a police escort, made no bones about his dislike for the close guard state police and Boston and Newton officers kept upon his person.

When he could escape he did. His favorite walking companions

21 Feared Dead In Halifax Fire

HALIFAX, N. S., March 2—Twenty-one persons were missing, many of them feared dead, after fire swept through the half-century-old Queen Hotel early today and spread to adjacent buildings.

Twenty others were in hospitals suffering spinal injuries, compound fractures and burns. Many of the victims were hurt when they jumped from hotel windows before firemen could reach them as flames roared swiftly through the wood and stucco structure.

Unofficial estimates of the missing ran as high as 27 persons, but police said the hotel register had been lost in the fire and that it might be days before a complete list could be compiled.

It was believed, however, that there were 37 guests and about 30 employees in the hotel when the fire started.

BOSTON SKATER SAVED

Among the victims admitted to Victoria General Hospital was Miss Jean Sherwood of New York, ice carnival star. The extent of her injuries was not determined immediately.

She was rescued with Douglas Duffy, Boston skater. At 10:30 a. m., four hours after the fire was discovered, the flames were still shooting from the ruined hotel and from adjacent buildings but it was believed they were under control.

Three business buildings in the same block were damaged by the fire, fanned by a 25-mile wind.

Among the missing were R. T. Caldwell of Kentville, a former member of the Nova Scotia legislature, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick McColl and John Johnston, a hockey referee who registered at the hotel only a short time before the fire broke out.

SEARCH IN RUINS

Duffy, awakened by smoke, crawled out of a window and made his way along a narrow wooden ledge to Miss Sherwood's window. He dragged the girl to the window-sill where they clung, enveloped in smoke, until firemen raised ladders to rescue them.

Duffy said he believed that all guests who failed to escape from their inside rooms were trapped and had no chance to escape.

Combings of the rubble of blackened timbers in search for bodies of the victims was expected to begin as soon as the ruins had cooled sufficiently for firemen to enter.

Firemen said men and women in night clothes were clinging to window ledges and screaming for help when they reached the scene. Many jumped from upper stories and sustained grave injuries.

Several were seen at smoke-filled windows trying to escape, only to fall back into the blazing structure.

Fanned by a brisk 25-mile wind, the fire spread to the four-story Canadian Electric building, the National Drug Company's five-story structure, a brick block housing several stores, and wooden buildings.

Police Sergeant Charles Judge said:

"I saw two men stand screaming at windows until they fell back into the flames. I never want to see anything like it again."

Thomas Richardson, night watchman at a hotel next door, said men and women were hanging from "every window of the Queen Hotel." He added:

"When the engines came we went up a ladder and threw three kids from six to ten years old into a fire-net. Then we took down a man and a woman."

"I saw one woman jump from a window and land on the marquee above the hotel entrance. Firemen took her down."

A. S. Dewar of Wallace, N. S., said his 20-year-old son, Don, was missing. He declared:

"I don't see how he could have got out. We were in separate rooms on the third floor and when I awoke the hotel was shaking. I couldn't get out into the hall. I couldn't open the door. Finally, I got out a window."

So. End School Closing Urged

Immediate closing of the Quincy school, South End, where a falling ceiling imperiled lives of 26 small girl pupils, was demanded today by City Councillor John I. Fitzgerald.

As representative of the district, he asked Superintendent of Schools Arthur L. Gould and Superintendent of Schoolhouse Construction James J. Mahar to suspend all classes pending inspection of the whole building.

Dead Boy's Family Scores Hospital for Tragic Action

In a grief-stricken home, the parents and relatives of five-year-old Charles McCusker of Roxbury spoke words of bitter denunciation today against the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital for refusing him treatment just before he died.

The boy, crushed by an oil truck, died at Children's Hospital, to which doctors had him transferred in the oil truck after James F. Dunn, 40, of Pontiac street, Roxbury, the driver, had carried the boy into Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

"They could have done something for him," sobbed the young mother, Mrs. Madeline McCusker, who has two other young children. "The least they could have done for my baby would have been to send him over in an ambulance and not in that old oil truck. My poor boy! It wasn't Jimmy's fault."

HOSPITAL RENOUNCED

James McCusker of Roslindale, plumbing contractor and an uncle of little Charles, said:

"It is a pretty rotten thing for a hospital to turn an injured boy away. That hospital is tax exempt, but if the city will permit a thing like this it should put some taxes on the hospital."

"I got all my employees to go 100 per cent into the Community Fund—just to give money to places like this. It was a com-

As Told to Joseph Carter, Boston Evening American Staff Writer

Bob must have gone stark, staring mad. He was a youngster, only 20. I'd known him all my life and he'd never said anything out of the way to me. My husband and I talked of his regard for me. We thought it was touching, but it was almost a joke to us, like the affair of a little boy.

We were wrong. He was such a good friend.

That day the baby was in the bassinet, and the other two children were in the kitchen. Some friends were there and we were all talking and joking when Bob came in.

He talked to me in the other room, and the things he said—I can't tell anyone. They were awful! I never heard such words before.

Then he went out and got the gun. When he came back, I thought he was joking about it, and I laughed. I told the others about it, and they laughed too. Then I went back and talked with him some more. He was twirling the gun around his finger, the way they do.

I never saw such eyes. He was staring at me as if he didn't see me, as if he were looking right

Cheats Death

At St. John's Hospital in Lowell, today, Mrs. Dorothea Forsythe, 26-year-old Billerica mother, who was shot and seriously wounded in her home on February 20 by Robert N. Chalmers, gave for the first time her own account of the terrifying experience. Though doctors at first said she had only one chance in 100 of recovering, today they said she "might pull through." Whispering barely audibly, she told how she and her husband had at first regarded lightly the "puppy love" that turned into a deep and tragic affair.

temptible thing."

The Peter Bent Brigham Hospital received $123,790.93 out of the 1937 Community Fund, the latest available figures. It was the second highest hospital contribution from the fund.

The Children's Hospital, to which the boy was sent to die, received only $78,352.31.

Authorities at the Peter Bent Brigham expressed "regret" for the "unfortunate" incident, explaining the boy was examined by a qualified physician and did not appear seriously injured.

They stated the hospital has a long-established policy of not treating children under 12, except in emergency cases, usually ordering them transferred to the nearby Children's Hospital, where there are better facilities.

Dunn told police that when he brought the child to the Brigham Hospital, he was met at the door by a man in white and was told to place the boy on a table.

Several minutes passed, he said, during which he was questioned by the man in white and by a stenographer.

After the questioning, he said, he was told the hospital could not accept the child as a patient and that it would be best to take him to Children's Hospital.

He reported to police that a nurse picked up the injured boy and accompanied him and his helper to the truck, in which they all drove to Children's Hospital.

REVERSE LEVER MIGHT HAVE HALTED CRASH

Experts Say Car Could Have Been Stopped

Would a twist of the reverse lever have halted the runaway Roxbury street car which crushed to death six persons and injured 27 others?

This was the question being asked today as six separate probes of the crash moved forward, and bereaved relatives held funeral services for three of the dead.

A significant development in the investigation came in a statement by John M. Whouley, public utilities commissioner, who declared:

"I am convinced that the reversing mechanism and the manually-operated brakes were in good condition at the time of the accident."

He and other commissioners are one of the groups probing the fatal crash, worst in Ed history since 45 persons were killed in a street car plunge into Fort Point channel on election night, 1916.

FOLEY INVESTIGATES

Some veteran railroad men said the thundering trolley might have been brought to a stop by a simple twist of the lever into reverse.

They declared that the reversing mechanism had, on emergency occasions, proved fully as effective as air brakes.

Still other investigations were under way today in the office of the district attorney, the city council, the Boston police, the legislature and the Boston Elevated itself.

As investigations into the tragedy were launched, the grieving families of two of the young school-girl victims prepared for their funeral services today.

Services for Eleanor Schriber, 20-year-old Portia Law School student of 568 Blue Hill avenue, were conducted at 10 a. m. in the Levine & Sons chapel, Washington street, Dorchester. Burial was in Baker street cemetery, West Roxbury.

HOLD LAST RITES

An hour later, her chum and neighbor, Diana Lax, 18, Boston University student, was given final services in the funeral chapel of Staneky & Sons, Grove Hall. Rabbi Herman Rubinstein, of Temple Mishkan Tefila officiated. Burial was in Ohabei Sedek cemetery, West Roxbury.

Funeral services for 12-year-old Dorrit Ruth Forman of Waltham street, West Newton, were held in Solomon Chapel, Harvard street, Brookline.

Services for another victim, George A. Walton, 15, of Brookline street, Dorchester, will be held Saturday at 11 a. m. at St. Mark's Church, Roxbury. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery, West Roxbury.

Edward Dana in his statement specifically exonerated the motorman of the trolley, Edward F. Hanley, 37, who was among the injured.

Governor Acts In Motor Probe

Governor Saltonstall today took a hand in the investigation of the division of motor vehicles of the state public utilities commission by appointing George D. Darling of Malden temporary head of the division.

The former head, Frank E. Riley, was recently removed pending a public hearing of formal charges against him to be held March 8, his birthday. At the time of his removal David J. McCarthy, his assistant who testified against him, was made acting director.

Darling was assistant to Elmer C. Nelson, chief employment secretary in the governor's office. Observers said his appointment indicated the governor was determined to investigate all charges against Riley.

Already almost 100 charges have been made against the latter.

TRY THAT FAILED—Desperately firemen sought to restore life by artificial respiration and inhalator to body of little Benjamin Raynes, 5, of Salem street, Malden, drowned with companion, David White, 4, of Wolcott street, Malden, in Forestdale cemetery pond. After two hours they gave up.

Warn of Thin Ice As Two Boys Drown

Malden police today issued a warning to parents against thin ice following the tragic deaths of two little Malden boys, David White, 4, and Benjamin Raynes, 5, who were drowned in a shallow pond in Forestdale cemetery.

Their bodies were recovered as their fathers, frantically searching for hours, arrived at the pond.

The fathers, Frank White of Wolcott street and George Raynes of Salem street, were in time to assist firemen and police in a vain endeavor of more than two hours to restore life to the little bodies. Even after all hope of life had been abandoned, the fathers, on their knees beside the bodies of their children, pleaded with the police and firemen to continue their efforts with the inhalator.

While the futile attempt to restore life to the children was under way, the pond was being searched in the belief that a third child, who had been a companion of David and Benjamin during the day, had also been drowned.

The child, David Margolis, 4, of Wolcott st., was later located safe in his home. But before he was found two firemen had risked their lives to search for him.

Lieut. Bartholomew O'Brien of the Melrose fire department, attired in a diver's suit, plunged repeatedly through the ice in search of a body.

A Malden fireman, Martin Dempsey, dived through the ice without diving equipment and swam beneath the treacherous film until he was near collapse.

The three children had been seen playing in the cemetery shortly before noon by George Cray, assistant superintendent of the cemetery. Cray had warned them not to go near the pond because of a thin film of ice. He told them to go to their homes.

150 Rescued From Leaking Sealer at Sea

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—Radio Marine Corporation reported today the British steamship Newfoundland had rescued the 150 men aboard the leaking fishing boat Ranger which had sent out radio pleas for help.

Radio Marine reported the rescue was effected in a heavy sea after the crew of the wooden Ranger had kept her afloat by bailing with buckets.

The Newfoundland said it was trying to fasten a line to the craft to tow it to port.

In contact with the radio marine station the Newfoundland reported:

"Very busy now attempting to get a tow aboard her. Very rough."

The Ranger had messaged during the night that she was "leaking badly." She is an old wooden craft of 161-foot length.

The Newfoundland messaged at 6 a. m. that she had sighted the stricken ship was followed shortly afterward by a message from a Cape Race radio station advising ships to resume normal traffic because the Ranger's distress had been taken care of.

The Ranger, 520 tons, was built back in 1871 and is owned by Bowring Brothers, Ltd., of St. John, N. F.

The Newfoundland is a 6520-ton passenger steamer, plying between St. John, Nfld., Halifax, N. S., and Boston. She was built in 1925.

Famous Boston Artist Join In Search for 'Peg Maleon'

It takes bright new words to tell it . . . and here it is. Somewhere in Boston is a girl so glamorous, so beautiful, so exquisite, so charming that she might, in truth, become a Galatea for a Boston Pygmalion . . . She is so kind, so gentle, so astute, so simple that she might be the ideal for which any man might yearn, for—

Once upon a time, in the long ago, a pagan Greek sculptor named Pygmalion wrought himself a statue so infinitely beautiful that he prayed to the gods that it be made to live. and it did, and he called it Galatea . . .

By GEORGE W. CLARKE

Copyright, 1938, by the Boston Evening American, Inc.

The thing was to find Boston's most beautiful, most genteel working girl . . . and to turn her into a duchess.

That's what the editor said, steeped in dreams, thinking of that ideal which had come from the pen of a bitter man, not bitter for a moment, who had told in a great play the story of a flower girl who became such a one . . .

To find a working girl who might become a duchess . . . There are none such in America—none save she who married a Windsor—but every American working girl might be, perhaps . . .

And all because a little man named Joe—hawklike, eager, insistent—had come to him in the interests of a movie, the motion-picture version of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion."

The first thing was to find an expert who knew beauty, charm, gentility. One who could choose with authority. That's what the editor said.

EXPERT IS FOUND

The expert was found in the gray austerity of a picture gallery. He sat in a room in which gentlemen with gray mustaches stared out of golden frames, flanked by New England landscapes, the pictured rush of the sea over rocks, a splash of flowers, the warm flesh of a painted nude.

It was the gallery of the Boston Guild of Artists . . . The man was Stanley Woodward.

There are many artists who presume to interpret New England with their brushes. There are a few who have succeeded in catching the sweep and the surge of the sea over the rocks of Maine, the simple beauty of New Hampshire landscapes. Of these Stanley Woodward is one.

"What," said he, "is to become of this girl, this child you are going to pluck out of her usual environment?"

"What are you going to do with her, outside of giving her a day, a week of extraordinary attention, of publicity, of the attention of all of your readers? . . . What happens, then?"

It was explained to him that the girl he might select would be taught the things that few girls are privileged to learn—how to walk, talk, wear clothes, dress her own hair. How, in short, to be more beautiful, more charming than ever before.

SYMBOL FOR ALL

It was further explained that, as she learned these things, they would be explained to all the girls in Boston, that this one girl would, in effect, be a symbol for all Boston's lovely young women.

She would be moved into a suite at the Copley-Plaza hotel, treated for a week as a true-life duchess, be given parties, taken to the theater, given a new life to live.

And, as a climax, she would be taken to the Loew's Orpheum Theater the night of March 9 for the opening of the movie, "Pygmalion."

Then, after the picture was forgotten, she would be carried on in a course at the School of Applied

"DUCHESS"—Wendy Hiller, who portrays street waif in George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," gets instructions from Leslie Howard, who "remakes" her. A hunt is now going on for Boston's own "Peg Maleon."

Arts, for charm, the Leland Powers School for Dramatics.

"Please believe," he was told, "that what will happen to her is for her good—that what is told about her, and her studies will be good for all the girls who choose to read . . ."

SHE IS FOUND

And so he accepted the task of finding such an one . . . And started out through the highways and byways, looking for her.

Down the long lanes of department stores he wandered, look-streets he went, his eye always alert. He stood for long minutes, gazing into the windows of shops, and he walked, unobtrusively, through factories and showrooms, and, at last—

He found her.

Young, she is, with black hair, and flashing teeth, and a smile that came first of all—by way of her mother, and her mother before her—from County Leitrim . . . And a lovely Colleen she is . . .

The identity of Boston's own Galatea, chosen by Stanley Woodward, the famous artist, will be revealed in tomorrow's installment of "The Adventures of Peg Maleon."

Walks After Her Operation

AUBURN, Neb., March 2 (AP)—Dr. F. F. Tushia said Mrs. Mary Cogdill, 32, Brownville, Neb., stepped from the operating table following an emergency appendectomy in a hospital last night and walked unaided back to her room.

Mrs. Cogdill, mother of two children, was unconcerned over the incident and seemed surprised to learn it was not customary. Dr. Tushia said nurses were too surprised to move. The woman had been given a local anesthetic.

GOVERNOR SCORED BY TAX GROUP

Governor Saltonstall was scored today by the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations for "shifting" to the Legislature the task of reducing the 1939 budget.

Although the statement concedes that the larger portion of the general fund increases is beyond control of the governor, it added:

"It may be regretted that the governor admittedly has left the entire job of budget reduction to the Legislature by passing by expenditures which would safely be curtailed."

After complimenting the Governor on "the carefulness of his presentation of the financial straits of our cities," the statement continues:

"They (the public) cannot, however, feel that he has set any impressive goal for economy in the reiteration that the budget of the executive department has been cut by an insignificant five per cent."

More than $2 will be added to the average 1939 city and town tax rate this year the federation predicted.

Malden Aldermen Probe Gang Death

While state police today continued their probe of the John Wheelock gambling murder by questioning a 24-year-old Revere suspect, Malden Aldermen began an investigation of their own into illegal gaming conditions.

Alderman Thomas L. Fitzmaurice headed a special committee to check on reports that card and dice games were still being conducted in sections of Malden, despite the gun battle which caused Wheelock's death and serious injury to Patrick J. Flynn, his bodyguard.

Others on the committee are Pertie L. Davenport and Frank H. Reed.

Several witnesses to the Waverly street gun fight viewed the latest suspect to be taken into custody, but officials refused to say whether he had been identified as one of the murder gang.

MRS. JAMES G. TOBIN
Her Plane Races Stork to Boston

RAIN HALTS TOBIN RACE WITH STORK

Ready for an air race with the stork from Miami to a Boston hospital, Mrs. James G. Tobin, sister-in-law of the mayor, had to delay her start today because of bad weather.

At Miami, a specially chartered plane waited to take off with the expectant mother and several other members of the Tobin party, including Dr. Richard J. Boyle, Boston obstetrician.

Because of Mrs. Tobin's critical condition, Dr. Boyle made a hurried trip to Florida by air, arriving in Miami at 3 a. m. today.

INSISTS ON HUR FLIGHT

Miami doctors had urged Mrs. Tobin to enter a hospital there and await arrival of her baby.

She was anxious, however, to keep her date with the stork in Boston if possible.

Dr. Boyle, after an examination, told Mrs. Tobin he felt she could safely make the journey. He said he would be at her side, should any unexpected situation develop.

AMBULANCE READY

Dr. Boyle also pointed out that, in case the stork appeared to be winning the race with the Tobin plane, Mrs. Tobin could be landed at any city for transfer to a hospital.

Mrs. Tobin's plane was to leave Miami before noon today, flying directly to Newark, N. J., airport, then coming on to Boston, after a brief stop for refuelling.

American Airlines made arrangements here for an ambulance to be waiting at the airport.

Mrs. Tobin's brother, John J. Spencer, city censor, said he believed she would go directly to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

The Tobins already have one child, James Spencer Tobin, 19 months old.

He is in Miami with Mrs. Tobin's mother, Mrs. William Spencer. She planned to bring her grandson back to Boston by train.

It was expected Mayor Tobin and his wife would make the airplane trip with Mrs. James Tobin today as far as Newark. Mayor Tobin is scheduled to attend a conference of mayors in New York city tomorrow and Saturday.

NEW ACID BARED IN SPY TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (AP).—A mysterious acid—capable of damaging the metal hulls of battleships—figured sensationally today in the federal trial of two men and a woman accused of peace-time espionage.

The acid, said U. S. Attorney Ben Harrison, was obtained from a German freighter by a Japanese fishing boat in 1937 and stored under the guard of an Italian at the Mexican port of Ensenada, 70 miles south of the California border.

The storehouse, Harrison said, burned in a fire of undetermined origin the day before an American immigration officer was shot while trying to stop two men from crossing into the United States.

All this information, the prosecutor asserted, was contained in one of the 69 secret reports of the Naval Intelligence Service which Hafis Salich, former operative, is accused of selling for $1700 to Mikhail Gorin, manager of a Soviet travel bureau, and his wife, Natasha.

RUNAWAYS BACK HOME

LAWRENCE, March 2—John Kennedy, 12, and his brother, Norman, 12, were back home today after a runaway trip to Boston harbor and a night's camp in the woods near their home.

Pétain First French Envoy to New Spain

PARIS, March 2 (AP)—France called her World War hero, Marshal Henri Philippe Pétain, back to service today to become her first ambassador to Nationalist Spain.

The appointment was announced after a cabinet meeting at Elysee Palace as France undertook to halt shipment of supplies through French ports to the Republican regime of Spain, in accordance with recognition of General Franco's Nationalist regime and apparently in hope the action would hasten the end of the civil war.

The 82-year-old marshal's appointment was understood to be for an extraordinary three-month mission to cover the closing phase of the Spanish war. It was believed he would be succeeded by a career diplomat.

Pétain's major task will be to press French demands for withdrawal of Italian troops from Spain.

The civil court at Marseille authorized representatives of Franco to seize all Republican property being loaded at that Southern French port, which has been the Republican's principal supply point.

Relieve Kidney-Bladder Passages WITHOUT DIURETIC PILLS

Root better at night.

One of the oldest, best known remedies in all the world for urinary disturbances, is Santal Midy, a sapient rich in East Indian sandalwood oil. Santal Midy helps to dilute excess acidity of the urine, which is the frequent cause of many kidney-bladder irritations. Santal Midy capsules aid in making the urine bland, and this helps to soothe the sensitive membrane. Don't burden your system with strong, harsh pills. Let Santal Midy capsules aid you—they need a bit more, but are well worth it. Look for real Santal Midy Capsules at your druggist.

Billion Air Bill For Britain

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—Air Secretary Sir Kingsley Wood today submitted estimates for the 1939-40 fiscal year starting April 1 which would boost appropriations for the British air force to more than a billion dollars.

As a consolation to the hard-pressed taxpayers, Sir Kingsley announced the strength in first line planes at home on March 21 would be 1750 planes.

The air secretary's statement showed the air force personnel would be increased by 12,000 during the next year to a total of 118,000. This would be nearly four times the 1934 total of 30,000.

Japan to Demand $199,000,000 for Navy

TOKYO, March 2 (AP)—The Japanese navy disclosed today that it would demand $199,000,000 in extra appropriations for the 1939-40 fiscal year and that more than half that amount would be allotted to expansion of Japan's fleet, the world's third largest.

A navy spokesman said that the extra appropriations would be divided as follows: For China war expenditures, $221,000,000; supplementary estimates, $48,000,000; "extra budget," $55,000,000; reserve, $177,000,000.

Jap Arsenal Blast Kills 200

TOKYO, March 2 (AP)—The army arsenal explosion at Hirakata, in which 200 Japanese died yesterday, "will not interfere in any way with the execution of military operations" in China, War Minister Lieutenant-General Selshiro Itagaki assured Parliament today.

A large section of the industrial town of Hirakata, 14 miles from Osaka, was wiped out.

Jap Empress Has 7th Baby

TOKYO, March 2 (AP)—The imperial household announced today that a daughter was born to Empress Nagako yesterday afternoon.

The baby was the seventh child of Emperor Hirohito and the imperial highness.

Only six are still alive, however, the second, Princess Hiro, died in 1928 when she was one year old.

Modern science and ancient ritual had mingled closely in the elaborate preparations for the birth. Late last September the imperial household announced to the nation that a baby was expected.

Calls Thousands To Arms in Italy

ROME, March 2 (INS)—Acting swiftly on his newly proclaimed maxim for 1939, "ever more intense military preparation," Premier Mussolini today moved to increase Italy's mobilization man power by calling several hundred thousand men to the colors.

He Duce unexpectedly summoned for military duty two classes of recruits who had been scheduled to report later in the spring, and recalled for re-examination members of three other classes who had previously failed in physical examinations.

NEW LONDON, N. H., March 2 (AP)—Gaiety and enthusiasm of America young people are making a marked impression on Leiselotte Froelich, 19-year-old German expatriate student at Colby Junior College.

Fleeting Berlin with her mother, Dr. Kuehe Froelich, at Christmas time, she became a colby student, and on her 19th birthday in February one of her presents was a full tuition.

Fight State Berths
For Married Women

More than 1000 women jammed Gardner Auditorium at the State House today as hearings were begun on seven bills to ban married women from employment in public service.

Corridors nearby were filled as the first speakers before the joint legislative committee on public service advocated passage of bills prohibiting married women from working discharge of those now employed and demands for resignations of any who marry in the future.

Representative Thomas J. Hannon, Jr., of Dorchester, spoke for his bill to prohibit future hiring of married women. He cited instances of women marrying on week-ends and returning Monday to work and said in one instance a married woman received a three-month leave of absence to have a baby and then returned to work.

"I do not think it is fair for that woman to hire a girl for $3 weekly to care for her baby. She should stay at home and bring up her child properly," Representative Hannon said.

The Dorchester representative explained that many women after marriage are discharged by corporations or lose jobs as school teachers and then get civil service jobs because of their superior training and experience.

"Under the state income tax law," Representative Hannon continued, "a man is allowed $500 annual exemption for his wife, whether she works or not. So if a man earns $2400 yearly and his wife earns $1800, he pays no tax because his net taxable income is under $2000. But a married man earning $2600 pays the tax."

"These married women working at the State House are no slaves bending over machines, nor do they marry welfare workers. They look the men over carefully and make good choices. They have big weddings and are back at the desk Monday as brides."

Another advocate for passage of the bills was Miss Florence Birmingham of Brighton, who described the plight of single girls "unable to get jobs because they are all taken by married women with husbands also employed."

HAPPY RELIEF
FROM PAINFUL
BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or ready passage with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste accumulates in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of energy and, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BOSTON  AMERICAN
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

We Start With One of These Appetizers

Sardine Appetite Teasers

- 1 cup sardines
 - 1/2 cup cream cheese
 - 1 tsp. minced parsley
 - 1 tsp. lemon juice
 - Dash of Worcestershire sauce
- Mix thoroughly and spread on whole crackers or use a layer of sardines on top.
- 4 small round crackers
 - 1 cup sardines
 - 1/2 cup cream cheese
 - 1 tsp. minced parsley
 - 1 tsp. lemon juice
 - 1 dash of Worcestershire sauce
- Cut into 4 small squares and serve.

Garnishes For Soup

- ### TATER DUMPLINGS
- 1/2 cup flour
 - 1/2 cup chopped fat salt pork
 - 1/2 cup minced onion
 - 1/2 cup minced parsley
 - 1 egg, well beaten
 - 1 cup salted hard bread crumbs
 - 1/2 tsp. salt
 - 1/2 tsp. black pepper
- Put flour and salt pork through food chopper twice. Add remaining ingredients, mix thoroughly and roll for several minutes. Form dumplings by rolling a ball of dough, then flattening it into a circle.

A Zestful Appetizer

- 1/2 cup ground beef or lamb
 - 1/2 cup bread crumbs
 - 1/2 cup minced onion
 - 1/2 cup minced parsley
 - 1/2 cup cream cheese
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1 dash of Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 egg, well beaten
- Mix thoroughly and spread on whole crackers or use a layer of sardines on top.

COCKTAIL SAUCE

- 1/2 cup ketchup
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
 - 1/2 cup black pepper
 - 1/2 cup salt
- Mix thoroughly and serve.

CUP SOUPS

- 1/2 cup flour
 - 1/2 cup cream cheese
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1/2 cup black pepper
 - 1/2 cup salt
- Mix thoroughly and serve.

PEANUT BUTTER AND BACON CANAPES

- 1/2 cup peanut butter
 - 1/2 cup cream cheese
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1/2 cup black pepper
 - 1/2 cup salt
- Mix thoroughly and serve.

CANAPES CUT CAPERS

ORIGINAL raisin bread canapés for smart tea tables are yours for the making. Cheese, chopped ripe olives, minced ham, eggs, tuna, anchovies, and pickles blend beautifully with the raisin bread foundation, recommended for its moisture retaining qualities and charm of flavor. Relishes of whole ripe olives, stuffed celery hearts and sliced red radishes are appropriate accompaniments.

MUSTARD BUTTER

Mustard butter is made by creaming 1/2 cup of softened Hood's butter with 2 tablespoons of Gulden's mustard.

The mustard butter may be used on sandwiches and canapés instead of butter, to give a piquant touch.

SOUP ETIQUETTE

All soups should be dipped from the far side of the bowl and served from the side next to you. This prevents the soup from being poured into the soup plate. Another good insurance against embarrassment of this sort is to fill the soup spoon only half full.

A Mint Cocktail For Color

- 1 cup water
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1/2 cup of spearmint
 - 1/2 cup of green vegetable coloring
 - 1/2 cup fruit
- Make a syrup of the sugar and water by boiling 1 minute. Cool and add lemon juice which has been strained and the spearmint and coloring. Pour into freezing tray or automatic refrigerator. When frozen to a mush remove the mixture to a chiller bowl and beat loosely. Return to tray and finish freezing. Cut grapefruit in half, remove membrane. Fill center with mint ice, place on a dolly of grape leaf and serve immediately. Approximate yield: 6 servings.

A Spring Sandwich

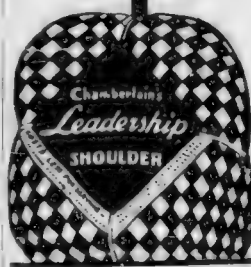

- 1 small cucumber
 - 1/2 cup cream mayonnaise
 - 1/2 cup chopped chives
 - 1/2 cup chopped parsley
 - 1/2 cup bread and Whiting's butter
- Save cucumber and soak in ice water until crisp, drain on towel. Spread slices of bread with butter, mix chives and parsley with the mayonnaise. Spread thickly and place one slice of cucumber in center of each sandwich. Cut in rounds.

REDUCE MILK SCUM

The scum left sticking to the pan in which milk is heated will be less if the pan is rinsed in cold water before the milk is put into it.

SERVE ALL-BRAN MUFFINS FOR DINNER TONIGHT!
ORDER ALL-BRAN FROM YOUR GROCER TODAY
Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek

8 new ways to make ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

You can now have crunchy, delicious All-Bran muffins every day in the week and not serve the same kind twice! Just start with the basic recipe that you will find below, and do any one of these eight things for a delightful variation!

1. For BACON MUFFINS add 1/4 cup crisp-cooked, dried bacon to dry ingredients.
2. For NUT MUFFINS add 1/4 cup chopped nut meats to dry ingredients.
3. For ORANGE MUFFINS add 2 tablespoons grated orange rind to dry ingredients.
4. For PRUNE MUFFINS add 1/4 cup chopped prunes to dry ingredients. (Soak dried prunes in water one hour or longer, drain, remove pits, cut in small pieces.)
5. For DATE MUFFINS substitute 1/4 cup sliced dates.
6. For RUM MUFFINS substitute 1/4 cup chopped figs.
7. For FIG MUFFINS add 1 tablespoon molasses to creamed mixture and 1/2 teaspoon ginger or 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients.
8. For SPICED MUFFINS add 1/2 teaspoon ginger or 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients.

THIS IS THE BASIC BRAN MUFFIN RECIPE:

- 2 1/2 cups shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat until creamy. Stir in All-Bran and milk. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes.
- Yield: 8 large muffins (3 inches in diameter) or 12 small muffins (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

Lenten Dishes Favorites All the Year

Salmon Flavors Spaghetti

- 1 package (9 oz) Mueller's spaghetti
- 2 tablespoons Beale's butter
- 1 small can tomato sauce
- 1 tablespoon dried parsley
- 5 tomatoes or 1 1/2 cups canned tomatoes
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon Swad's pepper
- 2 teaspoons dried basil

Heat the spaghetti for 9 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water to which 1 teaspoon salt has been added. One or two tomatoes may be added as well for extra tomato flavor. Inten leaving pot containing the latter, place the cooked spaghetti and brown Toon Add the parmesan tomatoes, sugar and red pepper and cook slowly for 26 minutes. Add the spaghetti and tomato juice. Combine well and serve. Any other cooked or canned fish may be substituted. Minestrone may be used in place of spaghetti.

Clams With Macaroni

- 1 9 oz package Mueller's maca
For:
1 quart cream
3 tablespoons Hood's butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 1/2 cups Hood's milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon Szechuan pepper
1/4 teaspoon Szechuan paprika
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 cup buttered bread bread

[illegible]

Oysters en Brochette

Put the bones in a stew pan with dozen large onions, two blades of basil and salt. Boil the bones pieces each. Take a silver or steel skewer and put a slice of bacon on it, then an oyster, then bacon, then an oyster, and so continue until the skewer is full. Season with salt and pepper, roll in bread butter, then in fresh bread crumbs and fry. When done serve on a platter with maître d'hôtel sauce and garnish with lemons cut in four, and parsley in branches.

MAITRE D'HOTEL SAUCE

1/4 lb. Hood's butter
Juice of one lemon
Chopped parsley
Mix together well. This sauce is not to be used hot

CHEESE GARNISH FOR ONION SOUP

Arrange a slice of roll or bread on top of onion soup in small covered earthenware bowl. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. Place in hot oven until the soup is heated through and the bread is toasted.

LUNCHEON HIT

Roll canned asparagus tips in beaten egg and cracker or bread crumbs. Fry to a nice brown. Drain. Serve hot on buttered toast, and pour over all a white sauce to which cheese has been added.

Delicious Devilled Crabmeat

- 2 tablespoons Hood's butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon Saut's pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon Shedd's mustard
- 1 cup milk
- 4 tablespoons ketchup
- 1 can condensed tomato soup, 1 pound
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons buttered bread crumbs

Melt the butter, add the four cups pepper and minced onion and mix to a smooth paste. Gradually add the milk and cream and stir until the mixture thickens. Add 1 tablespoon of the liqueur. Remove any excess fat from the chablis and add it to the mixture. Remove the creamer, add the remaining 2 cups of the liqueur, and stir the creamer with the sauce. Heat the egg well and add to the mixture. Transfer to well greased bakeware. And sprinkle tops with butter, cheddar and grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven 10 to 15 minutes, or until browned.

MOTHERS KNOW
children GROW!

Ounce by ounce, pound by pound, every mother thrills to the healthy growth of her children. Probably that is why they favor Hood's milk so highly. They know how much it contributes to muscle, bones and teeth—how it builds physical and mental vitality. In the choice of milk for your own family, remember this: New England mothers prefer Hood's at least two to one over any other milk!

Modern Kitchens Aid in Menu Planning

What's New In Kitchen Equipment

More a lady with a house will look along contentedly with a 1930 fix on the living room and she won't develop high blood pressure at her kitchen as late Herbert Hoover. But her kitchen, that is, something new again.

Since a kitchen is in time. If you are lucky enough to be in the market for new equipment and are contemplating a complete face lift for your kitchen, here is a preview of the latest in kitchen equipment. Some of the latest improvements are absolutely safe.

RANGES

New ranges. A home one with a 12-burner range, like a don't pay for it as he would for a range. The new ranges are built with a lot of safety in mind. They are built with a lot of safety in mind. They are built with a lot of safety in mind.

REFRIGERATORS

For convenience. A new drawer compartment and a new glass cover that allows a double purpose for a glass cover. But when the drawer is closed, it fits in tightly so that the glass shelf makes a cover for the drawer. This keeps vegetables and fruits at the proper degree of humidity as well as cool.

EMERGENCY SHELF A PICNIC ESSENTIAL

Be prepared! Picnic time is not so far away, and preparation is of prime importance when the picnic season starts. There is no controlling the sudden impulse to pack a lunch and make for the country. There are a number of ways to anticipate the picnic urge. Just think of the things which do a lot for picnic success. Sandwich spreads should be on hand in the refrigerator and your supply shelf well stocked with such picnic essentials as knives, forks, ketchup, mustard, chili sauce, mayonnaise and potato butter. In addition, you should also have adequate picnic equipment on hand. It need not be elaborate or expensive. But it will do wonders in the way of giving everybody more time for fun.

Then by all means plan your picnic menu to include easily prepared foods. The rule is: the easier the food, the better. The rule is: the easier the food, the better. The rule is: the easier the food, the better.

Two New Cookers

Two more developments in aluminum cookware are a three way, double and a four way cooker. The double, or heavy duty, is a cooker for hot casseroles, a great for use as a broiler for steaks, chops, hamburgers or what have you. A steak served on it stays sizzling hot. The handle is conveniently large so you won't burn yourself pushing it into the oven. The four way, which looks like an ordinary double boiler, is far more. The two parts together are a double boiler. The bottom with its center burner is a perfect broiler. The top with its four burners is a perfect double boiler. Efficiency in Laundering and Cleaning proper cleaning does for washing clothes and soap covers. Not only does it save soap but it also saves the color and material of your laundry.

WAYS TO LAUNDRY MORE EFFICIENTLY

When soaping water, brighten it with a little ammonia. This will make the water more effective in removing dirt. Use 2 heaping teaspoons of ammonia to a quart of water. Add this to the water in the tub or wash. The ammonia will break down the dirt and make it easier to wash. The ammonia will also break down the soap and make it more effective.

Another method is to add a little of the ammonia to the water in the tub or wash.

semit water. Operate the washer without for thorough mixing and then drop in the detergent. After a few minutes in the washer, the detergent should be rinsed thoroughly in plenty of warm water, followed by cold water. Hang articles to dry or partly dry.

If you wash clothes in a very strong detergent, you may find it is better to drop in the detergent after the clothes are partly dry. This will make the detergent more effective.

Never wash a lot of material at once but have time for the detergent to have time to have time.

Get More From Soap

Table soap and bar soap are the most common types of soap. They are made from the same material but are not treated in the same way.

The most common type of soap is the bar soap. It is made from a mixture of oil and soda ash. The bar soap is the most common type of soap because it is the most convenient to use.

GOOD LIGHT ESSENTIAL

Whenever possible a laundry should be done in a well-lighted place. This will make the detergent more effective and will also make the laundry more pleasant to do.

Cottage Protection

There will be no cause to worry about damage to your cottage or house by mice, insects and other animals during the winter months if you have the proper protection.

All cracks, holes and openings should be closed or sealed in the walls and roof of the house. This will keep out the mice, insects and other animals.

A good method of sealing the cracks and holes is to use a mixture of cement and sand. This will make the cracks and holes more difficult to see and will also make them more difficult to enter.

CLOROX IS EFFECTIVE

Many worry about spots and stains on the carpet as a result of water damage. Clorox is the most effective way to remove these spots and stains.

Even such difficult stains as coffee, tea, chocolate, ketchup, and mustard can be removed with Clorox. Clorox is the most effective way to remove these stains.

Hints on Cleansing

Mice are attracted by food and the smell of food. They will enter the house through the cracks and holes in the walls and roof.

...ELECTED POPE ON 3RD BALLOT

The Life of Christ

CHAPTER FIVE

The wisdom of the boy Christ astonishes the great doctors and scholars of the Temple.

By COLLIN CLINE

WHEN JESUS was twelve years of age he went with His father and brothers to Jerusalem for the celebration of the Passover.

Every day He wandered through the courts of King Solomon's wisdom Temple, which had required nearly a half-century to build. Often as did many studious boys, He listened to the teaching of the priests.

Finally, on the sixth, came the hour for the return journey to Nazareth. Everywhere there was tremendous confusion for the thousands of other pilgrims who had flocked every day and dwelling of the Holy City were also going home.

With the sunrise of humanity, Joseph and Mary moved down the hill and out upon the plain, toward Nazareth. Jesus was not with them. And they did not worry for they thought He was with some of their relatives and friends amongst the company.

But when, after a whole day's traveling, they learned no one had seen Him, it had the slightest idea where He was, they did worry.

Filled with alarm born of the knowledge of the many times when could happen to a country boy alone for the first time in a strange city, they hastened back to Jerusalem and, as though guided by God, went directly to the Temple.

There, to their utter astonishment, was Jesus with the most learned men of the time, not only listening to their wisdom but ANSWERING their questions!

We can imagine how glad Mary was to find her Son alive. But as all loved mothers are wont to do, she mildly rebuked Him for having wandered in Jerusalem. And Jesus, not only the Son of man but the Son of God, answered, "Did you not know that I must be about My Father's business?"

He meant that He was growing older, that time was short, and that He must do what His Father in Heaven told Him to do.

Today's picture, loved throughout Christianity, was painted in 1862 by Heinrich H. Fuhrmann, long professor of art at Dresden Academy. His work is a coloring and delivery of composition it is unsurpassed.

Tomorrow, the story of our Saviour's life continues, and from Italy comes an outstanding example of contemporary art to illustrate it.

A GRATEFUL WORLD

grooms the elevation of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Chamberlain and former Papal Secretary of State to the Throne of Saint Peter.

Cardinal Pacelli, in work and thought with the late Pope Pius XI, is expected to continue his predecessor's strong and uncompromising policies.

It was a worthy successor that Pius XI formerly desired. Cardinal Pacelli's selection is an important and sacred office.

This sign of the will be attached to the Pope's decision to be called Pius XII.

In the meantime, the world will see proof that Cardinal Pacelli, with the same fervor that has characterized his brilliant career as priest, theologian and pastor of the Catholic church, does not regard his elevation as a PERSONAL TRIBUTE, but that he accepts it as the DIVINE ANSWER to the prayers of the faithful man he loved as a son and a father.

THE "EL" TRAGEDY

will be remembered as one of the year's most sorrowful and regrettable events.

Of course, investigations designed to fix the blame cannot rest on the dead or heal the injuries of the living.

But, nonetheless, the investigations should be as thorough as it is humanly possible to make them. Learning the truth today ought to lead to greater care and safety tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the consistently good record of the Elevated should be considered. Not without a conscientious regard for the welfare of its passengers has the road enjoyed an unmatched reputation for caution.

Human Side of News -1-

by EDWIN C. HILL

CRASH OF cannon from Alpa to Sicily salutes the memory of the father of Fascist Italy not Mussolini who was but a borrower of another man's ideas, but Gabriele D'Annunzio. One year ago, on March 1, he let go his tiger soul on life and departed for his pagan paradise. But he left his impress on Italy.

It is more the eagle spirit of D'Annunzio than the bellowed commands of It Duce that sends Italy surging forward on heaven knows what perilous adventures. He was an incredible personality, this poet, playwright, war aviator, national hero and, as he himself was fond of saying in his perverse humor, national caecity. Great lover and faithless lover, he was altogether the strangest personality who breathed the breath of this half-century past.

A DOZEN YEARS ago I visited him in his superb island mansion on the shore of Lake Garda. Visited named to commemorate Italy's victory in the World War, a perfect jewel of a villa.

Through the artistry of this strange man, the residence, surrounded by vast and gorgeous gardens, was built around a huge lake. The walls were covered with 2,000 panes of colored glass, red, green, gold, blue. The walls of the rooms were done in white leather. Every room had a special name and there were some 40 rooms.

POET D'ANNUNZIO
At Least Half-Pagan

Everywhere in the villa was the suggestion or the reality of something precious and symbolic - Persian sculpture in ebony and silver; magnificent Egyptian masks.

D'Annunzio was at least half-pagan. Yet of him turned toward the old gods. His church excommunicated him 25 years ago, though he continued to attend mass until feebleness crept upon him.

WHATEVER Mussolini paid him, whatever presents he received, was little enough for the service he rendered his native land. It was D'Annunzio who brought Italy into the war.

Single-handed he raided Austria, bombed Austrian cities and the great Austrian naval bases at Cattaro and Pola, and fired all Italy with his heroism. When the war ended he seized Fiume, across the Adriatic, and held it against every threat of the great powers. Then he withdrew into monastic seclusion, to emerge only when the tide of Fascism began to rise.

Without the blessing of D'Annunzio it is hardly likely that Mussolini's march on Rome could have succeeded.

Girl About Town -1-

by MARJORIE McBRIDE

WHEN Katharine Hepburn comes to Boston in a foreigner in the Theatre district now people flock. A Philadelphia story says she will be as good as a star for a while.

It is a girl, a girl who, according to reports, knows typical of the girl, a typical American girl, and her name is Katharine Hepburn.

In her face, which will appear in a skirt and a skirt of oyster shells, and in a skirt of oyster shells. In the same skirt she will appear in a skirt of oyster shells, and in a skirt of oyster shells.

SECOND AIT ensembles include a skirt, crepe robe or chamber of medieval model. Then there's a triumph of an evening gown of white chiffon, fashioned of twenty-eight yards of fifty-four-inch material, covered with a skirted chiffon evening coat. In the last act, Katie will wear a pink chiffon frock with a large bow and carry a large garden hat of chiffon with a pinkish beige.

Star to Wear Many Costumes in New Play

It all sounds like a dreamer's dream.

MOTORISTS who ferry parking rules as one of the more of latently government will be interested to learn that things were even tougher in the Boston of 1789. An edict passed by the city fathers that year made no provision for warning tags. It reads: "If any driver, Owner or Person having the vehicle in use of any Cart, Wagon, Stage or Hackney Coach, Stone Wagon or other Carriage, now or old, trashed or untrashed, shall suffer the same to be and remain in any Street, Lane or Alley of said Town, more than one hour after same shall have first been placed there, unless by permission of the Surveyors of the Highway, every such Owner, Driver or Person, as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay the sum of One Dollar for every such offense."

Wealth Sharing -1-

by HUGH S. JOHNSON

GEORGETOWN, S. C., March 2. It can hardly be contested or doubted that the policy of this Administration in its later phases has been in general to "share" wealth. By various devices, it has attempted to redistribute property and to take away in some form from those who have it to give to those who have none or less.

The effect has been to paralyze the creation of new wealth, to freeze the old accumulated in the past, and to mortgage the future for a long time ahead.

It takes the values of pressure groups and hence has swung about. It panders class hatreds and animosities. There are very few people who argue that it can long continue without destroying the so-called capitalist or profits system.

BUT THERE is one great group in the United States which has not yet been sufficiently informed or sufficiently drawn together to make a "pressure" group. Their interest is distinctly adverse to all this. Their principal characteristics are such that, if they were sufficiently well organized and led, they could be the most dominating pressure group this movement has yet seen—or else it is not true that "the female of the species is more deadly than the male."

NATIONAL CAPITOL
Will Women Protest Here?

The women of America own most of the country's property and control most of its income—or at least most of its use through spending—and their strength in this relative ownership and control is not decreasing. It is advancing by leaps and bounds.

Of all estates passing on death of the heads of families, one-half to one-third go to the widows, the rest usually goes to children, of whom there are more girls than boys.

AS COMPARED with England, where property largely descends through the male heirs, America is rapidly becoming a matriarchy. Thus far there has been no issue of sufficient clearness or intensity to herd them into the same corral on a political or economic issue.

But if this trend which threatens their homes, their security and the welfare of their children isn't such an issue all commentators through the ages on the female sex have been in error.

From 1919 to United States Senate, the House of Representatives, and the Supreme Court, the women of America have been in the forefront of the fight for the equal rights of women.

Austen Lake:

Meet the Wife; Mrs. Dean Off to Join Diz

MAYBE YOU NOTICED IN THE PRINTS that Mrs. Patricia Dean has shoved off for Catalina Island to join her mercurial husband, Dizzy of the Chicago Cubs.

AUSTEN LAKE

Mrs. Patricia is the boss of "We & Co." The astute lady holds the family purse, dictates the correspondence, and controls Dizzy like a fond mama indulges a deficient child. So now she is going West to give the large lad a transfusion of egotism and build him back to his flamboyant self.

Do you think not?

Well, I remember the mild March afternoon of 1936 when "We & Co." were having their annual Spring salary spasm. I hired one of those rubber-tired sputter buggies in Sarasota and taxied over the concrete turnpike to Bradenton, 15 miles as the model T rolls. You turned left at the Dixie Grande Hotel and continued down Parker Street until you came to a snug estate where a bungalow was surrounded by amphylulu trees. You rattled a screen door and a personable looking female on the buxom side appeared and arched her plucked brows.

"Mrs. Dean," you purred, "Is Dizzy, the premier, non-parale pitcher of the universe in residence?"

This was always sure to please Mrs. Dean, who is a sucker for flattery to her spouse. She let you in.

On top of the grand piano you saw a two-foot poster photo of Diz, smirking from a silver frame, the sort of thing you usually associate with the lobbies of movie palaces. On the mantel was another Dean portrait, sized like a drugstore counter display. Through the dining room portieres a full length enlargement of Dizzy hung on the wall a view of the great man in uniform. There must have been a dozen more around the house.

Make no mistake, the business brains of the Dean household is pretty, plump Patricia, a lady who learned about male psychology as a history teacher in Dallas.

Patricia Worked a Cure

IN THE DAYS WHEN DEAN was demanding $50,000 from the Cardinals, it was very noticeable that his wife was a woman of letters. Mrs. Patricia Dean is a woman of letters. For here has been a woman who, with a quiet, unobtrusive ambition, has won Mrs. Dean. It is the story of a woman who, with a quiet, unobtrusive ambition, has won Mrs. Dean. It is the story of a woman who, with a quiet, unobtrusive ambition, has won Mrs. Dean.

Left to his own devices, Dizzy would probably have grabbed the Cardinals first offer and called it a day. But in his heart Dizzy is not the real man. The paper's point here, just a flicker of light, where he is. It is the story of a woman who, with a quiet, unobtrusive ambition, has won Mrs. Dean. It is the story of a woman who, with a quiet, unobtrusive ambition, has won Mrs. Dean.

Mrs. Dean recognized that with that missing sixth sense by which some smart wives estimate the dull, dumb deficiencies of their men, such ladies would then have a better balanced household, but Dizzy revealed in it, implying the same done worship in his eyes as a sheep dog might bless a generous owner. And if men were false at the end of their spines, Diz would have wagged that hairy plume quite bold by fanning messages of devotion for his "Mrs."

"The Lollypop Kid"

WHEN DIZZY JOINED THE ST. LOUIS team as a bachelor in 1932 he was a rustic hayshaker with a raw pitching power and a piqued nature which made him a quick favorite with the word painters of the press. But he was also a cantankerous cuss, who gnawed his cuffs and petted his depressions so that his first boss, old Gabby Street, once told me he never presumed to criticize him or speak a cross word lest Diz swoon in a seven-day bout.

"The lollypop kid" Gabby called him, because of his sweet tooth for praise.

But Frisch, as the next manager, regarded psychology equally effeminate as wearing silk pajamas, and he poured his doses for one and all from the same bitter bottle—a good mouthful of homeopathic profanities.

So Dizzy was fast growing wan and spiritless, and not even his defensive blusterings could plug the steady leak of his confidence as it trickled through his pores. He was 185 pounds of pout when Heaven sent him a suitable wife—a perky, sharp-eyed girl with a motherly manner mixed with a got-set-'em style of sales talk.

The cure was instant. Overnight the girth of Dizzy's chest swelled four inches. His slump changed to a swagger. He pulled his chin out of his collar and jotted it like a fasal balcony. And everywhere that Dizzy went his wife was sure to follow. Not hen-pecked, mind you. But simply that he thrived on Patricia's syrup.

Wives vs. Magnates

SO THE DIZZY MENAGE BECAME a loud "WE" instead of a faltering "I." Dizzy's earned-run average became "our" granddaddy average, and the wifely chatter referred to his strikework string as a mutual possession—which, considering the happy relationship, it was.

Casey Defends Mat Title in Battle With 'Shadow'

By JACK CONWAY

"The Shadow," mystery man of the mat, says he will become world's heavyweight champion by pinning Steve Casey in straight falls at a Paul Bowser show at the Garden tonight.

Casey is just an confident he will still retain his previous title when he leaves the ring. The insurance company he will administer a sound defeat to "The Shadow."

The sportsman Casey has in studied Casey a 6 to 1 favorite in view of the fact he is a champion and has won 200 straight matches. The betting favorite, always for the fact that the 100 lb. has the edge, every time he steps into the ring and history proves "The Shadow" is a heavy favorite.

The Shadow and Casey have each trained a referee in Boston and are prepared to fight in the best in the way of wrestling and action.

FINISH BOUT
The 100 lb. will be a 10 to 1 favorite. The contest will go under way at 8 o'clock, and the winners will have a 10 to 1 chance in which to decide which is the best for man.

The Shadow and Casey each possess a 10 to 1 chance with Paul Bowser that Casey will win a 10 to 1 match.

The American Wrestling Association and a Bowser show ruled that Casey must be a 10 to 1 favorite. As a result there will be a champion and a vanquished wrestler in tonight's contest.

It is expected that the largest crowd to see a wrestling match in Boston this season will be in the Garden when "The Shadow" and the rugged Casey breeze into action.

Gus Sonnenberg, former world's heavyweight champion who is battling his way back to a title bout, will oppose Rebel Bob Russell in a special bout. If he wins, Sonnenberg will get a crack at the winner of the fight between "The Shadow" and Casey.

Garden Card

Lord Albert Mills, England, vs. Pat Reilly, Texas.

(First bout at 8:15. Main event about 9 o'clock.)

Touch of kindness as the Shadow feeds pigeons on the Common yet he promises no quarters to Steve Casey whom he meets in a title match at the Garden tonight.

Crowds flock around the Shadow as he strolls through the Boston Common. The Shadow demonstrates his technique but nobody could learn his identity.

M'COY TRAINER SEES VICTORY AT GARDEN

Al McCoy, N. E. heavyweight champion, will be ready to go 10 rounds at top speed a week from tomorrow night at the Boston Garden when he boxes with Iwan Pastor, N. Y., in the feature of a Goodwin A. C. boxing carnival.

It was the world's most famous boxing matchmaker, Ray Vincent, of the Goodwin Association, the promoter from New York, who told McCoy that he was to fight Pastor.

Trainer Ray Vincent was on the edge of his seat when he heard that McCoy would fight Pastor. He said that McCoy may not have a 10 to 1 chance at top speed, but he would have a 10 to 1 chance at the end of the fight.

"We have finally found the way to condition McCoy so that he can travel the distance without tiring," Vincent said.

In their first fight in Boston, Buddy Baur beat McCoy only because Al weakened in the closing rounds and faded out of the decision.

In their second Boston bout, McCoy was out front for nine straight rounds and piled up such a long lead that when he did slow a bit in the 10th he didn't have to worry. He could coast in and there was no question about the verdict.

"McCoy will show even more stamina in his coming clash with Pastor for he's improving steadily. I wouldn't be surprised to see him produce the best fight of his career against Pastor and if he does, he may win by a knock out."

At that Al wasn't very far from the truth. In their first bout, Pastor was out for 10 rounds, but in the second, he was out for 10 rounds, but in the third, he was out for 10 rounds, but in the fourth, he was out for 10 rounds, but in the SARASOTA, Fla., Mar. 2.—Both Tom Pennock and Tom Daly are fast pitchers in their own baseball games. You can't out-quick the two.

Pennock, 30, and Sam Ray, 27, and both were second rounders on the Yankees. Pennock was hit for an opposite field home run by the lineup. Pennock and they must heavy work. After two days' inspection, one might grade the hurlers in camp in this fashion:

FRANK TASSO—Good fast ball, good curve. Needs control and experience.

JAKE WADE—Great natural ability. Lacks control probably because he had too many managers tinkering with him in past. Happy to be with Sox and may click under masterly tutelage of Pennock and Daly.

FRANK OSTERMUELLER—Can stand improvement in control.

WILFRID LEFEVRE—Only one year out of Holy Cross. Needs a faster fast one, a sharper curve. Has fine physique and may improve with experience.

JACK WILSON—Needs work and plenty of it. Injuries held him back last year. Seems set to repeat 1937 record.

EMERSON DICKMAN—Must improve control. Needs change of pace. Pennock will get both with care work. Didn't get a last year.

HARVEY WAGNER—Needs to work on control. Needs to work on control. Needs to work on control.

Sports Boom as French Fear War

Brouillard-Tenet Battle Saturday

JERRY BUCKLEY is back in Boston once more, carrying special delivery mail for Jim Farley and Peter Taglio after a trip to France with Lou Brouillard who battles Edward Tenet in a ten-round bout in Paris on Saturday night.

"I would have liked to have remained in France to have seen the Brouillard bout," said Jerry, "but it was necessary for me to return here."

"Brouillard and Tenet will battle in the swanky Palais de Sports under the direction of Jeff Dickson. The show will draw $18,000 as interest in it is running high."

"All top sports attractions are doing well as France is on a spending spree. People argue that they may as well spend their money as nobody is certain as to what may happen tomorrow with Hitler still threatening war."

"The French do not permit the war talk to interfere too much with their pleasures. They contend it will be time enough to start worrying when and if hostilities start."

"Brouillard and Yvon Robert, the former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, are living in the same hotel and they are close friends. Lou and Yvon speak French, and are happy in their new life."

"Robert recently won from Henri DeGlance, and is certain to become a good card in France."

"George Clark, the Scotch wrestler, is also in Paris. George cannot speak more than two words of French, and is having a difficult time."

Spanish Treasures Removed to France

"BROUILLARD MADE a trip to the Spanish border, and he told me he saw millions of dollars worth of Spanish treasures being taken into France as Franco made his last winning drive. The treasures included famous works of art, and large sums in gold."

"There are thousands of French and Italian youths parading the streets of Paris following war service in Spain. These youngsters have been fascinated by the adventures they experienced in Spain, and would be the first to enlist if war should break out in Europe."

"I met numerous American newspapermen in Europe. It looks as if the big American news services as well as the leading newspapers are prepared to cover every possible angle of any hostilities that may occur in Europe."

"Americans are now European inclined, and hop from New York or Boston to Paris and London like they used to make 200 to 300 mile trips at home ten and fifteen years ago."

"Europe still refuses to hurry in its method of doing business. In sports, athletes will not compete unless they are in the best of physical condition."

"Tenet was originally scheduled to meet Brouillard late in January, but insisted that the bout be postponed on account of a nose injury. Tenet's injury was not a severe one, and would never have stopped an American boxer."

Carpentier Has Two Cocktail Bars

I ASKED JERRY if he had met Georges Carpentier while in Paris.

"Brouillard and myself visited Carpentier," replied Buckley. "Georges told Lou that he was betting on him to beat Tenet."

"Carpentier has two cocktail bars. They are located in fashionable sections, and do most of their business between 5 p. m. and 9 p. m. Carpentier is at one spot from 5 p. m. until 7 p. m. and at his other place between 7 p. m. and 9 p. m."

"Many women drop in at Carpentier's bars and are always greeted cordially by the handsome Frenchman."

"You may tell the American service men that the French girls are as vivacious as ever, and always have a friendly eye for visiting Americans. There is a continuous parade of good looking French girls on the principal avenues, and they are not adverse to Americans purchasing them champagne at one of the sidewalk cafes."

Reminders of Possible Air Raids

JERRY SAID you have constant reminders of possible air raids.

"I noticed bags of sand scattered throughout the city. I was told they were for use in the event of air raids. The sand will put out a shell if it lands in it before it explodes."

"One day while in my hotel I heard a siren. I was told by Jeff Dickson that it was an air raid drill, and that everybody was supposed to rush to the cellar."

"The French always keep plenty of red wine in their cellars, and so these air raid drills have their advantages."

"You always have a feeling of tenseness when in France as if something is about to break. It feels good to have the hard pavements of Washington street under my feet again."

LOWER AND FIGHTER

KID MCCOY'S OWN STORY

As a member of the Hollywood moving picture colony, Kid McCoy works with a long list of stars, many of whom become his close friends.

In all of his film fights he has to be knocked out. Doug Fairbanks causes him to lose two gold teeth in a benefit bout. Starting with Clara Kimball Young, he has minor roles—and doubles for stars in risky stunts—until he finds himself in the toils of the law because of the operations of two oil men who have been using his name. He is quickly cleared of this charge, after Jim Jetties, former champion heavyweight, "Pittsburgh Phil" McGill, the famous plunger, come to his aid.

He attends the Dempsey-Carpenter fight and is entertained by John McCracken, the Irish tenor. After enjoying the bright light of fame once more, he journeys westward with Cliff Durant, Michigan automobile millionaire and sportsman, and is his guest in the Durant Lodge on the Au Sable River before going West with Durant as his boxing instructor.

McCoy is now employed by Henry Ford in Detroit.

By KID MCCOY

(As Told to Lee J. Smith)

Copyright, 1939, by Boston Evening American and King Features Syndicate, Inc.

I now approach the blackest chapter of my life story, but before descending into the shadows of that memory I would like to go back over some of the high spots of my trail through the years.

While in prison I carefully estimated the amount of money that fighting brought me. It totaled something like $240,000—which modern champions have earned in a single battle.

I was always a plunger, in business, on the race track, at the roulette table. I have lost thousands, won thousands in a few hours.

Always I have given freely of money. It had no meaning for me other than what it would immediately purchase. On my return from South Africa I succeeded in taking out a sizable endowment policy—although fighters are usually barred as risks. I kept it up a while, then borrowed all it would yield and let it go. I have given away tens of thousands, not only to my relatives, but to scores of passing acquaintances.

GRATITUDE OF FRIENDS

Little of it ever came back to me. The few instances of substantial gratitude I can well remember. One night in San Francisco a caddy came up to me in the street and said: "Are you Kid McCoy?"

I suspected trouble and moving close to the man, said: "Yes, what of it?"

"Here's ten bucks you staked me to years ago in New York when I asked for the price of a meal. I ain't never forgot it."

He was gone, leaving me with the banknote in my hand before I could ask who he was.

On a train, going West with Julia, an Italian dressmaker came aside mysteriously and introduced himself as the postmaster of a small town in Iowa. He said he wanted to shake Kid McCoy's hand, and confided that he had bet on me consistently, and had won.

"I feel that I owe you something," he said, and wrote a check for $200.

I tried to argue with him, but it was no use. He insisted that I take the check.

Julia bet me a new hat that the check would come back from the bank, but we put it through in Denver, and it was promptly non-redeemed.

Then, after my struggle came in Los Angeles, I got a letter from Dick, an old-time bowery boy. He recalled that years before had given him $200 to get him out of a serious scrape, and he had never forgotten. He enclosed a money order for the $200.

GOODMAN ONLY RIVAL

An appreciative friend was Nat Goodwin, who was proclaimed as my only rival in the matrimonial field. Nat had five wives, and I six. He backed me for my first fight with Dan Creeden, winning heavily. Afterward Nat gave me a ring with three diamonds, worth $2500.

Nat was comical and tragic in turn with his women troubles. I was frequently his guest when he was living in Santa Monica, Cal., when he had Goodwin's Pier and a big cafe. Poor Nat, the eternal playboy!

I never really qualified as a laboring man, yet my heart was always with the under-dog in any controversy, and on a number of occasions I gave exhibitions to aid strike funds. When I met Jim Francy in Cincinnati it was to help out the hungry families of striking coal miners. I offered Francy $50 if he could stay in the ring with me for four rounds, and he succeeded in doing so. I paid the $50 out of my own pocket, also traveling expenses, and turned over the strike receipts, several thousands of dollars, to the strikers.

Lincoln Steffen, whom I greatly admire, has told me that I have lived the life of a primitive man, without inhibitions. A succession of women, many of them totally forgotten now, have come and gone in my casual affections. Many stories have been told about me, a lot of them false, some harmless, some otherwise.

MARRIED YOUNG DANCER

In Los Angeles I contracted the most foolish of my marriages with a young dancer, Dagmar Dalgren, pupil of Isadora Duncan, who was living at the home of my sister, Jennie. I took Dagmar out in my car a few times and the bid said frankly that she would like to be my wife, although there had been no sentimentalizing between us. I was plenty old enough to be her father, and reminded her of that fact.

We finally agreed that if at the end of six months she still thought the same on the subject we'd get married. Six months later she reminded me of my promise and we were married in Los Angeles in 1920.

I got a place for her in Sid Grauman's theater, and a few months later we separated. The men of her own generation interested her more than I did, and quite naturally. Alice was terribly upset about my marriage to Dagmar. She had hoped that I had learned a measure of wisdom. Shortly afterward Alice married, and happily.

For six years, in Los Angeles, I sought to fill the aching emptiness that the loss of Alice had left in me. Lots of people will grin at the thought of Kid McCoy, the ladies man, the fighter, the wise guy, suffering the torments of heartache.

Okay, but my misery was more real than anything that less of money or position, or even that any physical sickness, could bring. There were girls, yes. But they took no hold of the real me. They came, they went, and it was always the same.

I met Theresa Moers on Feb. 17, 1924, at a party in her home on Whiteley Heights, Hollywood. We had a good many mutual friends and I immediately sensed a deep kinship between us. She was divorcing her husband, who was her partner in an art store doing a flourishing business. He was then in New York.

I was working then, as "confidential man," for C. C. Julian, who had a chain of gas and oil stations. One of my jobs was escorting collectors to prevent holdups. Theresa delighted in riding with me. We thought alike, we both were hungry for tenderness, kindness, intelligent companionship, and from our first meeting, we gave each other nothing but happiness.

In the seven months we were together, not one mean word passed between us. Incredible as it seems, we didn't have a single lovers' quarrel.

Theresa was subject to fits of acute despondency, and it was during these spells that I was of the most use to her. My disposition has always been cheerful, and I could dispel her attacks of the blues usually without much difficulty.

MONEY AND DIVORCE

My husband came on from New York, and we made no attempt to conceal from him our relationship. His interest in the divorce proceedings centered on the money settlement coming out of the business they owned together. Endless negotiations were entered into, and eventually she agreed to let him get the decree.

Moers was extremely anxious to get the big cut out of the business. For a while they occupied the same house, although in separate suites, and when I drove her home at night I would wait until she flashed the signal that all was well, as she feared he might harm her.

Our few months of love were marked by all kinds of disagreeable experiences. I was told that Moers had hired gunmen to beat me up, and one morning when there was a kicking at the door of our apartments in the Rondel Apartments of Coronado street, I fired a shot into the wall, thinking the thugs were on my trail.

In the next article "Kid" McCoy tells of the great tragedy of his life that led to prison.

Notre Dame Club Holds Special Smoker

Adam Walsh of Bowdoin, Hugh Devore, Ed Crotty of Providence College and Joe Boland, Elmer Layden's line coach at Notre Dame, will be among the guests of honor at a special Smoker and entertainment of the Notre Dame Club of Boston at the Brunswick Hotel, next Sunday night, at 7:30.

Other invited guests included Frank Leahy, Joe Sheeketski and "Moore" Krause. Joe Boland is coming from South Bend to attend the meeting, and will present a programme of moving pictures of all the games of last season.

The "inside" stories of the famous battles of Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey, Gene Tunney, Battling Siki, Jim Maloney, Mickey Walker, Georges Carpentier, Johnny Wilson, Pete Herman, Joe Louis, Max Schmeling, Primo Carnera, Ernie Schaaf and other celebrated knights of the squared circle will appear in this annual series.

Jack Conway takes you behind the scenes and tells you what really happened.

AUSTEN LAKE

For Patricia resurrected Dixie from spiritual droop and, according to marine, if not marital, law, she rated all the salvage rights.

Thus, until his elbow went sour last Spring, Dix was usually one of baseball's most tenacious holdouts, an affliction which the ball magnates have come to call the "matrimonial convulsions." If they could do it lawfully, the magnates would outlaw double-blessedness as a pernicious nuisance which transforms tractable bachelors into avaricious husbands and produces heavy pains in the region of the bank roll. So "twist wives and magnates there is a deep-rooted commercial enmity. The most historic cases are those of Dean, Ruth and Gehrig.

For the Babe never ascended into the lofty money brackets until Claire pin-heeled into his life. Nor did Gehrig, a lecherous fool, have any delusions of grandeur until Eleanor bewitched him and began whispering soft salary insinuations. At that instant the day was ended when the late Col. Rappert could buzz Lou on the phone and say, "When you pass by the brewery stop in and we'll sign the paper."

No sir! Lou got $31,000 in '36, $29,000 last year and in the same vicinity this year.

As Max Baer once remarked, "Nuthin' gives a guy Mexie like marriage." So I suggest, if John L. Lewis, the labor boss, wishes to scare the ball magnates into quick submission, all he has to do is organize the wives. They'll fix 'em.

McLeod's Record Brilliant

By JOE CASHMAN

BRADENTON, Fla., March 2—Old Man Consensus has it that the group composed of Al Simmons, Jimmy Outlaw, Johnny Dickshot, Debs Garms, Johnny Cooney and Max West will furnish the Bees' outfield material this season.

There are, however, dissenting opinions, particularly from the vicinities of Hartford, Conn., and Evansville, Ill.

Nutmeg Staters shifted from the Democratic to the Republican column last fall but they haven't changed their baseball views.

Rooting for the Hartford Senators last season, they agreed that gardener Ralph McLeod, from down Quincy way, belonged in the majors. And now that their idol is in training with the Bees, they're offering odds that he'll not only stick but will win a regular beat in the spacious Hive pasture.

Out in Ohio the good citizens also shifted political allegiance but, like their Connecticut brethren, they remain true to their baseball beliefs.

Outfielder Ralph Hodgins was the greatest minor league fly chaser in 1938 captivity in the eyes of Evansville fans. So as their hero comes up for a trial with the Swarm, they're predicting he'll have a breeze.

It's a tough task these youngsters face. In fact, on the surface, the odds would appear to be stacked against them.

MOVED McLEOD ABOUT

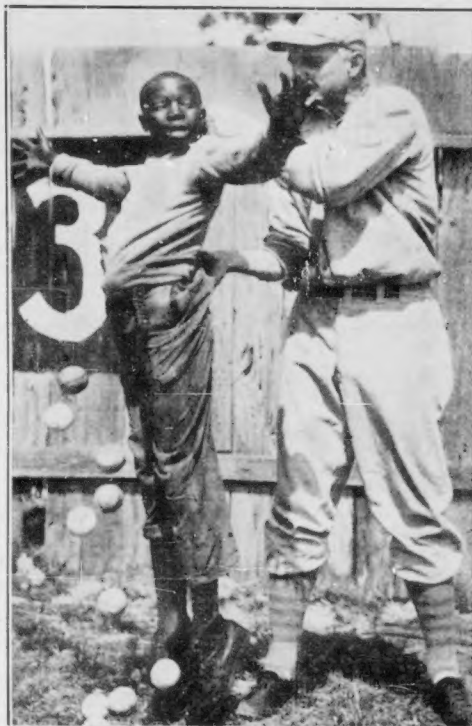

But a close study of their record-furnishes much to recommend them; enough, indeed, to accord them a fighting chance of surviving competition with the aforementioned "big six."

McLeod's is truly an extraordinary saga.

Walking into the Hive for a trial late in '36, he appeared helpless at the bat, but his defensive ability won him a trip to McKeesport, Pa., where he finished the season with a .310 stick mark.

Bees' bosses, who had looked him over, were sure that average was a mistake and moved him to Columbia, S. C., the next year to prove their contention.

So Ralph, batting in the tough lead-off slot, merely hit .320 in the Sally League. When the Allston officials got over that shock, they advanced him to Hartford. And, against better pitching than he'd ever seen before, he hit .332 as a lead-off man.

FAST AFOOT

There's never been any question about his fielding ability. He's a great judge of a fly ball, he has a deadly arm and can fly over the ground almost as fast as the train.

He still doesn't look impressive up there at the plate but it's impossible to laugh off his stick marks. The faster the league and the better the pitching, the better he hits.

In short, there's no telling just how good the young man, left-handed all around, might be. He may cash in on the opportunity he'll receive by proving a big league sensation.

We don't know so much about Hodgins, who doesn't report here until next week, but reports on him are exceedingly glowing.

Bob Coleman, who managed him the past two years, says it wouldn't surprise him a bit if the lad made the jump direct from Class B into fast company and that, if he doesn't, he's certain to be a Bees' regular not later than 1940.

"I can't picture a minor leaguer being as good as Quinn and Coleman paint the guy," chirps Casey Stengel. "If he's half what they say, I don't see how we're going to keep him off the club."

Lazer to Meet Warrington

Roy Lazer, the hard-hitting Jewish heavyweight, gets his big chance at the Argonne A. A. next Wednesday night when he battles with Tiger Warrington of Halifax in a 10-round bout.

Local relatives of the Newark, N. J. boy who gained lasting fame in his home town by whipping Leroy Haynes of Philadelphia, who twice knocked out Primo Carnera, former heavyweight champion of the world, urged Mack to give him a chance, and Mack quickly responded.

It was a problem to find an opponent for him, but Tiger Warrington who never draws a line when asked to fight, stepped into the picture and Matchmaker Mack's troubles were over.

This match makes the Argonne A. A. program a sparkling one.

MEDWICK BALKS AT $5000 PAY CUT

By Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla.—Catcher Rick Ferrell arrived at the Washington Senators' camp today armed with a Spanish dictionary and a mitt. "We've got so many Cuban pitchers this year," he explained, "that I figured I'd better start doing something about the language." Ferrell's object is Roberto Ortiz, 203-pounder who knows no English, but who throws very hard.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—It's a $5000 pay reduction, according to reports, that is keeping Joe Medwick, slugger and outfielder, from signing his 1939 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals. "That's not a cut, that's a stab," grumbled the stat to friends.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Although 14 hurlers took part in the first spring drill of the St. Louis Browns, club officials appeared anxious today to obtain signatures of several veterans, including Burk Newsum. Conferences were scheduled today with Fred Johnson and Russ Van Atta.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Although five of his stars are not yet in camp, Manager Joe McCarthy insisted today the New York Yankees have no holdouts and asserted his squad would be complete by Monday.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The Brooklyn Dodgers' lineup is all settled except at second base, according to Manager Leo Durocher. He made some of his outfield candidates burn today by declaring his No. 1 patrol combination would be Ernie Koy, Tuck Stainback and Gene Moore.

AVAILON, Cal.—In camp one week, Manager Gabby Hartnett estimated today the Chicago Cubs would carry three catchers, six infielders, five outfielders and 11 pitchers when the 25-player list goes into effect in May. He said he was depending on Earl Whitehill, Ray Harrell and Rookie Kirby Higbe, "who's up to stay this time."

TAMPA, Fla.—Eddie Joost and Charley English, two rookies who are figuring in rebuilding plans for the Cincinnati Reds, indicated this year, were ready for practice today and both confident they would stick. Although they are both third-batters, Manager Bill McKechnie is growing impatient for Joost for second to help out Lonnie Frey.

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex.—Manager Doc Prothro of the Philadelphia Nationals is more concerned about the weather than the absence of five players. The tardy ones—Catcher Al Wood, Davis and Clark, and Pitchers Butcher and Hollingsworth—have all signed, but were given a few days' leeway in reporting. Meanwhile, Prothro has his fingers crossed hoping for warmer weather.

LAKE LAND, Fla.—With George Gill expected to camp today and Archie Meakin, southpaw obtained from Boston, enroute in Minnesota, all the Detroit Tigers' pitching staff is accounted for except the incomparable Cletus Wood Poffenberger. Manager Del Baker, accustomed to such absences by Poffenberger, says he's not worried and sure Poffy will show up.

PASADENA, Calif.—Among the early anxieties of the Chicago

White Sox are Pitcher Johnny Whitehead and Second Baseman Jackie Hayes. Hefty Whitehead has drilled diligently, but after three days still needs 218. Hayes, who arrived in camp yesterday limping, said the club physician told him his December knee operation may keep him out of the early exhibitions but that he would be ready to go when the season opens.

NEW ORLEANS—With Pitcher Mel Harder signed and on his way to camp, the Cleveland Indians still had a holdout worry today. Big Jeff Heath was hanging around camp, barred from working out until he agreed to terms.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—Bill Terry of the New York Giants' pitching staff was complete with the signing of Dick Coffman and the doubtful arms of Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher seemed to have their old whip in the light work Terry permitted them.

LAKE CHARLES, La.—Six holdouts—largest number since the days of 1929-31—were missing from the Philadelphia Athletics' training camp today, but old Connie Mack professed to be unperurbed. "They can stay at home as far as I'm concerned," he avowed.

DiMaggio Signs

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2 (INS)—After signing a 1939 contract, Joe DiMaggio, Yankee slugger de luxe, prepared to leave this afternoon for the Yanks' spring training at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The young outfielder signed his contract last night and sent it East by airmail. He refused to discuss his terms, but reports had it he will get $27,500 or $25,000 more than last year.

McKechnie Banks On Whitley Moore

TAMPA, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds indicated that Lloyd (Whitley) Moore would be among the starting pitchers this year.

"Whitley's going to surprise a lot of folks this year," said the skipper. "He has a world of natural ability and a heart as big as a watermelon."

New York Boys' Five Guest of W. E. House

On Saturday evening, at the Blossom street gym, the feature game of the season will be played when the West End House Varsity, victors over Beverly City, will play the New York Boys Club.
